

THOUGHTS ON FOOD SYSTEMS

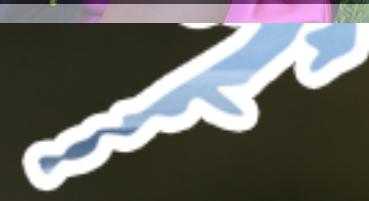

"My grandfather was born in Punjab under British rule. At the time Punjab was used to grow wheat for export to Britain [and] those in Punjab were hungry while those in Britain were not. My grandfather grew to hate the British, grew to hate the international system, and went to prison for protesting against this food export."

Bikrum, USA

"We used to plant tomatoes and it would come out so good. Now, because of using the fertilizers and all the chemicals to scare away the pests, has brought us a big pest that we cannot find the right chemical. The only thing that we can grow very well is spinach, onion, and big fruit. There are lots of pests that we don't know how to scare them away."

Josephine, South Africa

HEAR FROM BIKRUM AND JOSEPHINE ABOUT THEIR EXPERIENCE WITH FOOD SYSTEMS. CAN YOU IDENTIFY FOOD SYSTEMS ELEMENTS? WHAT FOOD SYSTEM ISSUES HAVE THESE PEOPLE FACED?

fourstoriesaboutfood.org